NEW ERA

Whatever Mr. Roosevelt meant by saying he wouldn't run in the "usual partisan political sense," the chances are he won't find Gov. Dewey running that way either.

Dewey didn't lick the Democratic machine in New York by doing his running the usual way. That does not mean he will choose to try the same things he used successfully there, but it indicates there may be changes made which will match Mr. Roosevelt's political trick of running while not running.

Gov. Dewey's moves up to this time have been concerned largely with organization. One of his fixed ideas on this score is that popular favor must be converted into ballot favor the hard way—meaning that voters must be high-pressured into going to the polls. He cannot do this on a national scale the way he did it in New York politics, but undoubtedly he will encourage local and state Republican organizations to make an extraordinary effort to canvass the electorate.

There will be, on Gov. Dewey's part, a minimum of oratory if he follows his previous custom, but in the minimum will be a maximum of factual material, including the facts which the Roosevelt administration finds most bothersome. Dewey, of course, will be the first Republican candidate since radio became a major factor in politics to have the benefit of a good radio voice, with better inflections than those of Mr. Roosevelt. While voice and inflections are not important as such, they are vital to the task of conveying ideas clearly to the people. This has been Gov. Dewey's long suit in New York politics, where he made old-fashioned political oratory seem as out of date as torchlight parades.

The precise meaning of Mr. Roosevelt's declaration that he would run for a fourth term—but not in the "usual partisan, political sense"—will have to be disclosed by his own actions during the campaign. In the sense that Mr. Roosevelt has good reason to know about Gov. Dewey's campaign methods in New York, where he has taken the measure of some of the ablest Democratic vote getters in the business, it might be his way of giving advance recognition to his opponent's modern technique in politics.

Perhaps nothing in the 1944 campaign will be done in the "usual partisan, political sense," but that does not mean there will not be just as vigorous a campaign as both candidates can produce. It will be a new era, but the same two-party system.

SHIMADA TO THE SHARKS

The Japanese may not do it this way, but when navy ministers in the governments of other naval powers get dropped overboard tied up in a sack with a ton of decorations, titles and soft soap, it means they are being thrown to the sharks. By that token, replacement of Admiral Shigetaro Shimada with Admiral Osami Nagano, as announced by Tokyo, is evidence that Premier Tojo is having more trouble with the war in the Pacific than can be cured with propaganda broadcasts.

Tojo, himself, as these things go, has had a phenomenal run—ever since October, 1941. But when old timers like Shimada, who came into the cabinet at the same time, begin to get shaken up, it means the prime minister's turn is coming. Japan does many things differently, but in governments the world over they make and break cabinets the same way—make them to win confidence and break them, either piecemeal or altogether, when confidence ebbs. Tojo will go eventually, but meanwhile Shimada confirms what the news has been saying. Japan is worried about the war in the Pacific.

HALF THE STORY

The salary list for 1942—the ordinary man's annual chance to drool over the nation's thickest, juiciest incomes—has been published by the treasury department. Sidney R. Fleisher leads all the rest with $645,000. The movie magnate, L. B. Mayer, the usual winner is not included in the list, but may come along in a later edition. Eugene G. Grace, a famous name in big salary lists, came in second. In the field, as usual, were many photogenic faces from Hollywood.

These lists are a stirring tribute to a land of opportunity which can enable so many citizens to earn decent wages and a few, because of some quirk of brains or luck, to take it in by the bushel. Unfortunately, they tell only half the story. Chief among the droolers these days are internal revenue agents entitled to take upward of 90 percent of thick, juicy incomes.

While the public is being enlightened on such matters, it should know how much the dad-busted "rev-enue-men" got and how much they left—because what they left is the only part that means anything to the fellow who didn't get the rest.

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, July 20

A GENERALLY benign and fortunate state of affairs is read from the prevailing aspects of major planets. It should be a time for reaching to high levels of progress, success and happiness, best pursued on astute, ingenious and careful lines already obtaining. Under such programs the most cherished of goals and advanced objectives and ambitions may be obtained. This in collaboration with elders or other influential personages. There may be some undercover or tacit agreements, to give solidity and security to either business or romantic ideals.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to forge ahead on the ambitious lines already established, assured of the support and financial help of elders or others in powerful positions. Cherished goals, with the fulfillment of heart desires in business, romantic, spiritual or cultural affiliations should be confidently aspired to, even though there be subtle, intriguing or complicated angles not entirely clear or decisive.

Aid For Vets' Dependents

By JACG STINNETT

WASHINGTON—In all the hullabaloo about what the government is going to do for the GI Joes who come out of the armed forces in health or disabled, the has been almost completely lost that much is provided for those dependents of men who die.

Congressmen and other government officials have told me recently of pitiful letters from "next of kin" who want to know if something can't be done to help their sad plight.

In the first place, there are four types of cash payments made to wives, children and parents and in some cases to brothers and sisters.

They are (1) a six-months gratuity payment; (2) insurance; (3) pension; (4) arrears in pay.

The first amounts to from $300 to nearly $470, depending on rating, with slightly higher payments for overseas service. It is six times the base pay of the man killed in service connected duty. It is paid automatically and no dependency need be shown. It goes first to wives, next to a child or children, to parents, to brothers or sisters, or if none of these exist, to grandparents. This is made in addition to any other cash payments.

The second varies, of course, depending on the amount of insurance the deceased carried. The limit is $10,000 and it is paid in monthly installments.

These installments vary, depending on the age of the beneficiary, but if the $10,000 limit is carried, the beneficiary, named by the soldier, receives payments ranging from $55.50 a month upward for 20 years.

No actual policies are issued, but certificates of policy are and these are most important in expediting insurance claims. Without them such claims might necessarily go unsettled for long periods, in questionable cases, perhaps for years. Payments are made only to beneficiaries named in the policies and relatives who can be named are limited.

Pensions are paid automatically to wives or children under 18 (or under 21 where they are still in school). Parents who can show dependency also get pensions, in some cases at the same time wives or minor children are drawing pensions. Roughly, these range from $45 a month upward, not to exceed $100.

Only when a man is killed on payday are there no "arrears in pay." Sometimes, when men have been at the front for long periods, or in transit for some time, these arrears are considerable. These arrears go to the service man's legal heir or heirs.

All questions regarding these payments should be addressed to the veterans administration local service officer, or to the Red Cross or the American Legion. All are prepared to give the details and provide blanks for expediting payments.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

The Chronic Drinker A Problem

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., former chronic alcoholic. The oldest members have been continuously sober for eight to ten years. Their record in reclaiming others is: Of those sincerely willing to stop drinking 50 per cent have done so at once, 25 per cent after a few relapses, and most of the remainder have improved.

Their treatment draws on the resources of medicine, psychiatry, religion and their own experiences of drinking and recovery. The last 18 their great natural advantage. How often do doctors and clergymen throw up their hands when after exhaustive exhortation the alcoholic says: "But you don't understand me. You never did any serious drinking yourself, so how can you?"

The question of whether alcoholic beverages are per se good or bad does not enter into the argument for the chronic alcoholic. For many, probably most people who get a lift out of an occasional drink or a stimulus before a meal, or to lubricate a social evening it does no harm. But for the individual called an alcoholic it is pure poison.

What kind of a person an alcoholic is I don't know. He certainly has no one individual personality pattern. I am not at all convinced that he is always basically a neurotic or a pervers, although some may be. Nor am I convinced that the formula that he uses alcohol as an escape, or that he has an inferiority complex is invariably true. Nor am I interested in those people.

I am interested in the superior man, who has nothing to escape from, who finds that alcohol, at least the first few drinks, lifts him to an even more superior plane, where he sees into the heart of things, but by that time the alcohol has made some sort of a chemical combination with his nervous system so that he has to go on until he is sodden.

There is one message of hope, which I have unanimously from five such superior men known to me who have successfully recovered from chronic alcoholism. The message is—anybody can give up alcohol if he wants to, and will find himself much happier without it.

The chronic alcoholic thinks he just can't live without his daily drink. He can, and if he is the superior man I want to save he will find himself just as interested and alert and very much more satisfied without than with it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
S. M.: Is it harmful for a person 65 years old to smoke cigarettes and take a drink occasionally who has high blood pressure?

Answer: Not in my opinion. The cigarette may raise blood pressure a little, but not to any great extent. A drink occasionally is good for high blood pressure.

Do you have poor digestion? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel headachy after eating? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you get sour or upset easily? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel tired—listless? ☐ YES ☐ NO

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 10¢ and 25¢.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE
It's getting worse," reported Pat to Ellery. "Jim's drinking himself stupid. Even Lola can't do anything with him. Ellery, is it just that he's scared?"

"He's not scared at all. Goes deeper than funk, Patty. Hasn't he seen Nora yet?"

"He's ashamed to go near her. Nora's threatening to get out of bed and go over there herself, only Dr. Willoughby said if she did he'd send her to a hospital. I slept with her last night. She cried all night."

Ellery remarked glumly, "Nora still thinks he's innocent?"

"Of course. She wants him to go back. She says if he'd only come over to see her, she knows she could persuade him to stand up and defend himself from those attacks."

"You see what those reporters are writing about Jim now?"

Yes, sighed Ellery.

"It's all Frank Lloyd's fault! It's so furious he says he'll never speak to Frank again."

"It's better to keep out of Lloyd's way," said Ellery with a frown. "He's thoroughly aroused."

Then Pat burst out: "How can people be so mean? Mom's friends—they don't call her any more, they're whispering ugly things behind her back, she's being snubbed by two of her organizations—even the Judge's wife."

Ellery "Which suggests another interesting problem. . . . Have you seen Carter Bradford lately?"

"No," answered Pat. Then the audi-detective swiftly changed tack.

"Patty, what do you know about Robert Roberts?"

"A good reporter, I'd say!"

"Strange that different conclusions she draws from the same facts. Did you see this?" Ellery showed Pat a Chicago newspaper, clipped back to Robert's Column. A paragraph had been ringed, and Pat read it quickly:

The longer I investigate this case, the surer I feel that James Haight is a misunderstood man, a martyr to what is at best a circumstantial case and a victim of mobism. The woman he is alleged by gossip to have tried to poison is standing by her husband four-square, with never a doubt. More power to you, Nora Wright Haight! If faith and love still mean anything in this wretched world, your husband's name will be cleared and you will triumph over the pack.

"That's a deserved tribute!" cried Pat.

"A little emotional, even for a famous entrepreneur of love," remarked Mr. Queen dryly. "I think I'll cultivate this female Cupid."

But that only confirmed his first impression. Robert Roberts was part and soul behind the struggle to get Jim a just hearing. Robert and one talk with Nora, and they became fighters in a common cause.

"If you could only get Jim to come here," said Nora urgently.

"Won't you try, Miss Roberts?"

"He'll listen to you," Pat interposed.

But Jim refused to stir from the case.

"Why, Jim?" asked the newspaper woman patiently. Ellery was present.

And Lola Wright.

"Lemme alone," Jim had not moved; under the stubble his skin was gray.

"You can't just lie around the house and let these people spit on you! See Nora. She'll give you strength, Jim. She's ill—don't you know that? Don't you care?"

Haight turned a tortured face to the wall. "Nora's in good hands. Her family's taking care of her. And I've done her enough harm already. Lemme alone!"

"But Nora believes in you."

"I'm not gonna see Nora till this is all over," he muttered. "Till I'm Jim Haight again in this town, not some dead hyena."

And not all of Robert's prodding could rouse him.

When Robert had gone, and Jim was asleep, Ellery said to Lola Wright: "And what's your angle, my dear Sphinx?"

"No angle. Somebody has to take care of Jim. I feed him and put him to bed."

"You haven't expressed any opinion, Lola."

"There's been too much expression of opinion," she retorted. "But if you want to know, I'm a professional underdog-lover. I see Jim suffering, and that's enough for me."

"Apparently it's enough for Robert Roberts, too," mumbled Ellery.

"Miss Love-Conquers-All?" Lola shrugged. "If you ask me, that dame's on Jim's side so she can get in where the other reporters can't!"

Considering that Nora was bedridden as a result of arsenic poisoning, that John F. was finding his cronies transferring their business
to Hallam Luck's Public Trust Co., that Hermione was having the ladyfinger put on her, Pat was sticking close to Nora's bedside, and even Lola had been jolted out of her isolation—considering all this, it was wonderful how the Wrights kept bravely pretending, even among themselves, that nothing out of the ordinary had happened.

No one referred to Nora's condition except as an "illness." John F.
talked business at his desk in his old dry way—if he attended far fewer board meetings it was because he was "tied up." . . . obviously;

and the fact that he disappeared from the weekly luncheons of the Chamber of Commerce was excused on grounds of dyspepsia.

FIND GRIM FIELDS BLOOMING

FOUR AMERICAN NURSES discover that Normandy's fields, like those of the Flanders poem, are alive with poppies in the midst of battle death. Veterans of 23 months' combat service, they are (l. to r.): Marie Paik, Kansas City; Frances Holt, Clarksburg, W. Va.; Frances Lalee, Kansas City; Irene Rohr, Hutchinson, Kan. (International)

As for Jim—he was not mentioned at all.

But Hermie, after the first emotional storm, did some talking and sail patching. No one was going to run her out of town. And grimly she began to employ her telephone again. At her Women's Club, Madam President astounded everyone by making a personal appearance, in her smartest winter suit, acting as if nothing had happened whatsoever. The ladies grew scarlet under the lash of Hermie's scorn. And at home she took charge as of old.
Ludie went about with a relieved expression.

By the beginning of February things took on such an air of normality that Lola actually returned to her flat in Low Village and Pat assumed the task of cooking Jim's meals and straightening Nora's house.

On February 13th, Dr. Willoughby said that Nora could get out of bed. There was much joy in the household. Ludie baked a gargantuan lemon-meringue pie, Nora's favorite. John F. came home early from the bank with a double armful of roses (where he got them, he refused to say); Pat stretched as if she were cramped and then washed her hair and did her nails, murmuring things like: "My, how I've let myself go!" Hermie turned the radio on for the first time in weeks. . . . It was like coming out of a restless sleep to find yourself safely awake.

Nora wanted to see Jim instantly;
but Hermie refused to let her out of the house—"The first day, dear!
Are you insane?"—and so Nora phoned next door. After a while she hung up, helplessly; there was no answer.

"Maybe he's gone out for a walk,"
said Pat.

"I'm sure that's what it is, Nora," agreed Hermie, fussing over Nora's hair. Hermie did not say that Jim was in the house that very moment
—she had just glimpsed his gray face pressed against the Venetian blinds of the master bedroom.

"I know!" exclaimed Nora, and she telephoned Ben Danzig. "Mr.

Danzig, send me the biggest, most expensive Valentine you've got.
Right away!"

"Yes, ma'am," said Ben; and in a half hour it was all over town that Nora Haight was all right again. Sending Valentines! Is there another man, do you suppose?

It was a gorgeous thing, quilted in pink satin and bordered with real lace, framing numerous fat Cupids and sweet with St. Valentine sentiment—Ben Danzig's most exclusive number!

Nora addressed the envelope herself, and sent Ellery out to mail it.
She was almost gay.

In the mail Friday morning there was no Valentine for Nora.

"I'm going over there," she said firmly. "Jim's sulking. He thinks the whole world's against him. I'm going—"

Ludie came in, very stiff and scared, and said: "It's Chief Dakin
and Mr. Bradford, Miss Hermie."

cheeks. "For . . . me, Ludie?"

"Says he wants to be seeing Miss Nora."

John F. rose from the breakfast table. "I'll handle this!" They went into the living room.

Mr. Queen left his eggs and ran upstairs. Pat yawned "Whozit?"
when he rapped on her door.

"Come downstairs!"

"Whaffor?" He heard her yawn again. "Come in, come in," Ellery merely opened the door. Pat was bunched under the bedclothes, looking rosy and mused.

"Dakin and Bradford. To see Nora. I think this is it!"

"Oh! Panic. But only for a moment. 'Throw me my robe, like a darling. It's artie in here.' Mr.
Queen handed it to her, turned to walk out. 'Wait for me in the hall, Ellery. I want to go downstairs with you.'"

Pat joined him shortly. As they came in, Chief Dakin was saying:
"Course, Mrs. Haight, you understand I've got to cover the whole

Have a "Coke"= You're home again

...or getting back among the folks

The biggest moment on earth to a fighting man is when he returns home. And one of the things that makes him feel at home is the old familiar phrase... Have a "Coke". With Coca-Cola, ice-cold, in your refrigerator, you can make any fighting man, including your own, feel he's back with his friends. From the border to the Gulf, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become a symbol of friendly living.

Hitler's Generals Disagreement On Strategy Costs Many Lives

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, July 19.—The Russian press published today a statement by Gen. Edmund Hofmeister, captured commander of the 41st German tank corps, declaring a disagreement among Hitler's generals over strategy on the eastern front was costing a great toll of lives and prisoners.

The captured general's statement, as published in Soviet newspapers, criticized Hitler's insistence on holding ground and refusing to retreat unless bludgeoned from positions.

"Field Marshal (Ernst) Busch, commander of the central front between the Pripyat marshes and Baltic states, the area of the most spectacular Russian advances of 300 miles or more," told me Hitler forbade any retreat," Gen. Hofmeister's published statement said. "Hitler ordered every inch of occupied country defended. Although I considered the order wrong, I had to obey."

"I want to say the defeat in White Russia is an example of the talentless command of Hitler. When Marshals Brauchitsch, List and Von Rundstedt and others tried to point out errors, they were discharged."

The captive general said Germany had no reserves to hold such a large territory as Hitler now is ordering the army to defend. The captive said there was considerable antagonism between older and younger commanders, but that the veterans were keeping silent and carrying out orders because Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command, had announced that any criticism would be punished by death.

Hofmeister asserted that Hitler, to affirm his strategy, recently called a conference of generals and admirals and that he attended.

"His (Hitler's) face was swollen, his voice was low and he got mixed up in his speech," the statement said.

The prisoner said Hitler rambled and stumbled over his words throughout his speech to his commanders and asserted, toward the close, that Germany would win the war of course.

"But nobody explained just how," Hofmeister's statement said.

ROBOT BOMBS RAIN DOWN ON ENGLAND

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, July 19.—London and southern England were targets of the greatest 24-hour robot bomb attack last night and today since the German weapon first was loosed June 15.

Gen. Eisenhower's invasion headquarters interpreted the attack as an effort to divert the mighty pace of Allied power which has been stunning German troops across the channel with an unprecedented deluge of bombs.

The number of flying bombs, launched from the Calais coast of France, increased noticeably with the start of the British offensive below Caen and it was apparent the German command had decided to strike the civilian population of England in a gamble to pull away some of the 7,350 planes which pounded the German war machine in the reich and France yesterday.

Last definite figures announced for robot bomb casualties were given to commons by Winston Churchill July 6. At that time 2,752 had been killed and 8,000 hospitalized, mainly in the "bombardment of London."

Await Final Ruling On Soldier Ballot Application Fight

(By Associated Press)
WARREN, July 19. — Common pleas Judge Lynn B. Griffith has promised a final ruling later this week on his action yesterday in upholding the legality of a mandamus action seeking to compel Trumbull county election officials to issue absentee soldier vote ballots on applications other than those issued officially by the election board.

The mandamus was filed by Trumbull County Prosecutor Paul J. Reagan at the request of Mrs. Eva Watkins of Niles, state agent for the Blue Star Mothers of Ohio, who reported members of her organization were denied soldier ballots.

A demurrer filed on behalf of Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel by Ohio Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert was overruled by Judge Griffith.

Herbert notified the court he intended to appeal the case if the later decision upholds Reagan's contention that the board of elections must accept all soldier vote ballot applications which conform to state specifications, regardless of whether they are issued by the board of elections.

At yesterday's hearing, Herbert declared "my idea is that the general assembly enacted a very liberal soldier-voting law, and the regulations should be observed without attempting to wholesale the ballots."

"Ohio is opposed to organizations getting relatives of soldiers to make wholesale applications for ballots, when the applications should be made by each individual relative," Reagan maintained the applications conformed to state specifications and contended the issuance of ballots on applications other than those furnished by the election board should be allowed because the boards have "an insufficient quantity on hand."

The secretary of state last Friday ruled against acceptance by election boards of applications other than those issued by the boards.

FDR CHOICES

Friends said he will have a minimum of 250 of 1,176 votes. A total of 589 is needed to nominate.

Secs Wallace Winning

Originally, Mr. Roosevelt declared for a free and open convention in which the vice presidential nomination is concerned—although, of course, his own nomination has been foregone since he announced his availability.

The reference of Byrnes to having bowed out "in deference" to the President put an entirely different complexion on the possible convention outcome as early arrivals began trickling into huge Chicago stadium for the opening session.

Jake More, Iowa State Democratic chairman, said the Byrnes announcement and other developments "coming through the day" will clinch renomination for Wallace.

"It's going to help Wallace," he commented on the Byrnes letter. "They're going to try to throw those votes to Truman, however."

"That wouldn't be popular in the Midwest. Not at all," he said. "Truman, but they can't see where we would get the ticket. It might weaken it."

No indication was given as to how the President might have communicated his wishes to Byrnes.

Mr. Roosevelt is known to be away from Washington. Under voluntary wartime censorship, his movements are not reported in such cases unless he or an authorized representative directs.

nal legislation passed in 1899 to allow the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. to install underground cables in Salem for modernization and improvement of its service here.

J. W. Shilton, representing the company, pointed out that the old overhead cables and underground equipment on the same streets, he said the new measure merely gave the company the right to install new and more efficient lines in the city.

The company plans to install a long distance line through Salem Canton, where it will be taken under the river.

The new line will run west from S. Ellsworth ave. to the Georgetown road and will entail laying conduits underground and in places installing pipe cables for direct connection. The line will carry anything but long distance calls he said.

Two hundred to 250 navy enlisted men.

Nine naval officers.

Seventy maritime commission seamen.

Thirty-six members of navy armed guard crews.

Five coast guardsmen.

Three civilian railroad workers.

Additional deaths were possible.

An exact count of the dead was difficult because the explosions killed without leaving a trace of identification. Only four bodies had been recovered last night.

Most of the navy enlisted men were killed while loading the ammunition ships. Many seamen and members of the navy gun crews died aboard the vessels. Others were killed or injured when the barracks, a mile away, was shattered.

Twisted hulls of the two freighters, the new 10,000-ton Quinault Victory and the 7,500-ton Liberty ship E. A. Bryan, protruded today from the channel offshore from the torn dock area.

The ships were loading ammunition when they were blown to bits. Monetary loss will run into many millions of dollars. The ships alone were valued at $4,300,000.

Dewey To Pattern White House Drive On Party Teamwork

BY CHARLES H. PALMER
ALBANY, N. Y., July 19. — The pattern of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's "front veranda" summer campaign to seat himself in the White House appeared today to hinge on party organization.

Observers of the Republican presidential nominee's political methods, said it had become apparent the 42-year-old governor was laying the foundation of his election drive on the time-tested formula of state and local party teamwork.

They based their conclusions on Dewey's almost uninterrupted post-convention series of huddles with GOP congressional leaders. These parleys are held at the executive mansion — frequently on the front veranda.

The governor took time out yesterday from his organizational talks to blast the federal supplementary soldier ballot as void under the New York constitution and to defend the state's soldier vote law as a "model of simplicity."

It was one of his few formal utterances since his nomination. He is not expected to begin his speaking tour until after Labor day.

This mighty aerial blow literally forced a "corridor" in the German Crime defenses, allowing armor and infantry to pour through.

The Germans showed little ability to cope with the power of the combined air-land thrust.

Joe Kelley's Tenth-Inning Homer Wins For Recreation, 3-1

Old Timers Down Demings In Extra Innings As News Drops One-Hitter To Jim's

In a ball game that featured three all-important home runs, the Recreation bounded back into the winning column and set themselves up as serious third round contenders by polishing off Demings, 3-1, in an extra inning fray at Centennial park yesterday.

The early game of the evening saw the News, completely void of hitting power, fall to Jim's team 4-1, as Jim's chalked up their second win of the season. The victory puts the league in a mad scramble for the second division honors, as four of the eight teams have now been beaten three times in four games.

In the upper-bracket of the Class A loop are the unbeaten China, the Rees and Mullins with one loss in four games, and Demings with a 500 mark of two wins and two losses.

A home run by Joe Kelley, player-manager of the Old Timers, clinched the Demings game with two runs in the tenth to break the 1-1 deadlock. The original two scores were chalked up on homers as Catcher McArthur banged one of the longest hits of the season out to left field in the sixth inning to score Demings' lone tally. Herbie Brown rounded the bases to tie it up in the seventh after Glenn Whinnery misjudged a fly ball in left field that rolled to the lower diamond.

Pitcher Bill Pauline, making his first start for the Rees, out-pitched Kenny Brudery of Demings and held the Pumpers to six hits. Brudery gave up eight safeties in losing. Kelley's homer scored Pete Sanders with the winning margin.

In the initial contest Jim's banged out a bevy of safeties in the third frame to score four big runs from News hurler "Hoss" Wright. On the mound for Jim's, Ralph Hendricks tossed a one-hit game and nearly blanked the opposition, but Dick Falk scored in the sixth after getting the only News hit of the fray.

The win was the first for Jim's since they topped Paxsons, 2-0, in the second round. The News drop ped its third game in four and slips into the four-way tie for last place.

Charlie Huffer, slugging first sacker for the Old Timers, moved into a clinching hold on first place in league batting by plowing out three hits in four trips to the plate. The Old Timer boosted his average from .388 to .415 in the process and is now leading the league in percentage as well as having more hits than any other player.

ANDERSSON BREAKS WORLD MILE RECORD

Swede Nears Four Minute Mark as He Shatters Own Best Time

(By Associated Press) STOCKHOLM, July 19.—Arne Andersson, the flying Swedish school teacher, ran a world record mile of 4:01.6 yesterday, an indication that the much-discussed, elusive four-minute mile is just around the corner.

In clipping a full second off the world standard of 4:02.6 which he set a year ago, Andersson beat his more famous countryman, Gunder Haegg, by two meters. Haegg was timed in 4:02, his fastest speed for the distance.

Andersson's 4:01.6 mile was the latest development in the running of the event that has become a monopoly for him and Haegg. They have shattered the mark four times in the last two years, cutting nearly five seconds off the 4:06.4 turned in by Sidney Wooderson of England in 1937.

"I cannot imagine anyone running the mile in four minutes or less during this or the next few years," Anderson declared a year ago after his 4:02.6 feat. However, if he can shave a full second off the record in one year's time the four-minute mile may soon become a reality.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS INCREASE LEAD BY DOWNING YANKS

Break "Yankee Hoodoo" By Smashing Out Homers In Home Park

BY JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer
The "Yankee Hoodoo" that is supposed to haunt the St. Louis Browns vanished in thin air today as Luke Sewell's leaders took charge of the American league pennant race with a 3-game working margin.

Opening a long home stand a vital 4-game series, the Browns blasted Em Roser and Johnny Johnson for an 8-0 edge while Bob Muncie worked his shutout charm for the third time, the second against the Yanks.

Uncork Homers
The pennant-starved Browns uncorked a home run punch from Milt Byrne, Gene Moore and Chet Laabs in a 12-hit total for their fourth triumph over New York in 11 starts.

Boston maintained its mastery over Chicago, notching an 11th straight on a 4-2 edge in 11 innings.

Jimmy Outlaw's single scored Joe Hoover from second base with the big run as Detroit took a 6-5 nod over Washington in an 11-frame twilight contest.

Al Smith stopped a 9th inning Philadelphia rally one run short and held on to pitch Cleveland a 4-3 margin over the A's. Don Black was Connie Mack's loser although First Sacker Bill McGhee did his best with four hits for a losing cause.

Cards Still Going
St. Louis's more secure first place tenant, the Cardinals of the National league, had little trouble in silencing Brooklyn, 5-0, in one of two games played in Ford Frick's circuit.

Phil Weintraub was the slugger man of the evening, clouting a grand slam homer to account for four runs of New York's 5-2 margin on Pittsburgh. The clout, Phil's 12th, hoisted the Giants' first sacker into the runs batted in lead.

Philadelphia, Boston, Cincinnati and Chicago were not scheduled.

Penn Grid Chances Dependent On Navy Incoming Trainees

PHILADELPHIA—Prospects were dim today that Coach George Munger will be able to send a University of Pennsylvania football team on the field this fall that can match last year's mighty Quaker juggernaut.

The red and blue mentor has 'hoped that the incoming class will add some civilian or Navy V-12 talent to his list of 53 players which includes only four lettermen. Backfield material is especially lacking.

The holdovers Munger is leaning on to start against Duke in September—the first grid clash of the two schools in their history—are Guards Walt Stickle and Ray Stengel; Ted Tussing, blocking back, and fullback Jonny Small, Penn's 16-year-old who starred in several games last year.

Munger has next to nothing to work with in the way of backs aside from Small and Tussing. The fledglings who took part in spring drills have had no more than limited high school experience, and, in many cases, none at all.

Added to Munger's worries is the fact that incoming Navy trainees will not be eligible to play until after Nov. 1.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, July 19.—At Capt. Wan Topping's farewell tea party for the Brooklyn Tigers Monday, Publicist John McDonald, finally getting a chance to talk after sitting silently through the MacPhail and part of the Rickey eras with the Dodgers, told this once....

During one of Rickey's early staff meetings the air was thick with optimism and B. R. finally arose, spread his arms and announced: "I see pennants, pennants, pennants, more pennants than anyone has won in the history of baseball.".... And isn't this a fine time to bring that up?.... The Tigers, with 73 men ("I didn't say players," explains Coach Pete Cawthon) already signed, feel considerable sympathy for the Boston Yanks and Cleveland Rams, who are having plenty of trouble rounding up athletes. Brooklyn went through it last year.... Incidentally, that nickname "Tigers" came from the insignia of Capt. Topping's Marine squadron.

SHORTS AND SHELLS
The Philadelphia Athletics, a charter member of the National league, were expelled after the first season, 1876. Wecracks are too obvious.... Suey Welch, former Akron, O., fight manager who handled Gorilla Jones and K. O. Christner, now books actors in Los Angeles and has an interest in several theaters. He left the fight game about five years ago.... Al Ennis, the Philly Eagles tub thumper, is exercising his lungs at Shibe park as substitute announcer while Babe O'Rourke is ill.

SERVICE DEPT.
Gunnery's Mate 1 C Donald Felton of Fort Worth, Tex., and the Seabees, is proud owner of a "Rogers Hornsby autographed" baseball bat. It was made in Tokyo and found near the Jap radio station on Saipan.... It probably would be a dangerous weapon with the Rajah holding it.... Ems. Hampton Pool, the big former Chicago Bears end, is assigned to the navy demolition obstacle remover units at the Port Pierce, Fla., amphibious training base. And pro footballers will tell you Hamp always was good at removing obstacles.

Publishers, Authors To Seek Compromise On Soldiers Books

By JOHN SELBY
Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK, July 19.—Several hundred publishers, authors and editors hope that tomorrow will see the end of the tangle over what books may be sent to soldiers overseas.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, author of the controversial Title 5 of the Soldier Vote act, which is the basis of the debate, will meet army representatives and others on that day. They will try to reach a compromise that will allow the soldiers to get the same sort of reading matter they would have at home.

Right now, the Council on Books
in Wartime, representing U. S. publishers, is afraid that the flow of books to military men may be throttled indefinitely. This is because, as Archibald G. Ogden, executive director of the council, points out, Title 5 was put through congress as a rider on the soldiers' vote bill, but actually is a part of the Hatch-Connolly bill, which is designed to function indefinitely.

Strongly Interpreted Sen. Taft has indicated that he believes the army is interpreting the too stringently. But the army, according to Ogden, indicates that it expects to tighten up still more.

The army points out, in letters to Ogden, to Norman Cousins, of the Saturday Review of Literature, and to others, that Title 5 is a criminal statute. If an officer approves a book about which somebody successfully raises a question, he may be fined $1000 or sent to prison for a year, or he may get both penalties.

The Army Library service, in a statement, points out that the list of approved army titles, but adds that "the provision of Title 5 is unquestionably makes the services' jobs more difficult. If it is your decision, and you suffer the penalty for violating the law, your position is very different from that of the innocent bystander whose criticism costs him nothing."

Critics of Title 5 in the publishing world and there are, to date no defenders at all say that the law is subtly worded. Sen. Taft says
"what we aimed at was reading material of a clearly propagandist nature." In a letter to Cousins, he said it was preposterous to exclude Catherine Drinker Bowen's "Yankee

From Olympus" and Charles A.
Beard's "The Republic," the latter being a conservative historian's estimate of America.

Magazines Use Material
But the army, and for that matter, the Council on Books in Wartime argues in their turn that the wording of Title 5 says any book "designed or calculated" to influence a man's vote must be banned, and that therefore Plato might quite easily be refused a soldier, or Bryce's "Commonwealth" or for that matter the Declaration of Independence.

Among the absurdities referred to in the storm of unfavorable comment that already has, according to the council, come back from overseas is the fact that often a text which would have to be banned in book form already has circulated over the world as magazine matterial.

IT'S THE SAIPAN 'AIR STRIP

THE 'AIR STRIP' is what they call this novel hair-do in Saipan, and you'll note that the shaved areas do resemble airfield runways. The haircut, symbolizing the U. S. possession of Saipan fields, is being undertaken by Adolph Streil, a Coast Guardsman from La Salle, Ill., and the "victim" is Seaman Hugh Duffy, West Hazleton, Pa. The fancy apparel is real silk left behind by conquered Japs. (International)

JOHN NOLAN

for vice president at the Chicago convention.

Native of Steubenville, Nolan was active in civic affairs and once published the Steubenville Gazette, a daily newspaper which later merged with the Herald-Star.

Two brothers, Thomas A. Nolan of Columbus and Leo J. Nolan of Steubenville, and two sisters, Mrs. Frank Coen and Mrs. Edward Russell, both of Steubenville, survive.

In pre-prohibition days, Nolan was secretary to the old liquor licensing commission, the group which was established to license saloons.

After examining the body, Dr. Victor Levine, coroner's physician, attributed death to second and third degree burns. He added that Nolan simultaneously suffered an attack resulting from an organic heart condition.

The War Today

wards the famous fortified city of Brest Litovsk which is the hub of a network of railways. This is the chief anchor of the entire Nazi line. Its fall would be a catastrophe for Hitler.

And finally we have the new blow—a powerful drive toward Lwow, another vital railway center. This old city stands as a sentinel on one of the thoroughfares leading to the Polish capital. This is the grimly precarious position of Hitler's armies. But we shouldn't mistake this danger of disaster as the actuality of defeat. The Germans are expected to offer fierce resistance, for they are defending the shields to the Reich itself. T. Russians have no delusions on this point, and the Moscow newspaper Izvestia in speaking of the battle for East Prussia—the first German soil to come under the attack of the fantry—declares that "vigorous battles will take place at the approaches."

Supreme Court Rules
In Election Board Row

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, July 19. — The Ohio
Supreme court today ordered Sec.
of State Edward J. Hummel to appoint Clarence O. Humker as the Republican member of the Stark county executive committee's endorsement of Humker for the position because of alleged irregularity in the committee's creation, appointed Loy Ella Baker to the position.

In ordering Humker's appointment the court held that though the committee had not been elected in strict accordance with the law
it was Hummel's duty to recognize its selection inasmuch as its validity never previously had been challenged by any other group or committee.

cave in the town of the port. This cave is located about a mile and a half from the scene. (International Soundphoto).
